NOTES IN SEASON.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & CO. have ready "Stray Chords," a volume of poems by Mrs. Julia R. Anagnos, which has already attracted considerable attention. The authoress is one of the gifted daughters of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & CO. have ready an amusing book, "Ye Jackdaw of Rheims: An Ancient Ballade," by Thomas Ingoldby, with illustrations by Ernest Maurice Jessop. The volume is very handsomely gotten up, and suggests itself as a capital Christmas present to a clergyman.

R. WORTHINGTON will issue on the 20th inst. Roswell Rice's "Orations and Poems" in a handsome large octavo volume. The author is well known as an enthusiastic advocate of temperance and religion, and he has lectured extensively on these subjects and also on slavery, the evils of war, and other topics. He was also a ready writer of poetry, and his poems fill more than three fourths of the volume, there being no less than two hundred and forty-four pages of acrostics. A fervent religious spirit pervades most of the verse, and some of it has considerable merit. The same may be said of the orations.

LEE & SHEPARD have ready "Floyd Graddon's Honor," a new novel by Miss A. M. Douglas; and "Our Boys of '35," by Edward L. Elwell, of the Portland Transcript, an interesting book for boys, describing boy life in Portland, Me., fifty years ago. They announce as in press "Life at Puget Sound, with Sketches of Travel in Washington Territory, British Columbia, Oregon, and California in 1865-1881," by Caroline C. Leighton, being the observations and experiences of a residence of sixteen years on the Pacific coast, and describing the character, features, and attractions of this new "land of promise."

HARPER & BROS. issue this week Rev. T. F. Thiselton Dyer's "Folk-Lore of Shakespeare," a volume which, it is said, "throws clear and conclusive light upon a vast number of phrases and passages in Shakespeare's works which cannot be understood except by reference to popular habits and beliefs of the Elizabethan age." They have also ready a new book by William Blaikie, author of "How to Get Strong," entitled "Sound Bodies for our Boys and Girls," the object of which is to suggest and give directions for exercises which will develop all the muscles of the body; "Raising the Pearl," by James Otis, a good, healthy book for boys; "The Home and its Surroundings," by N. H. Egleston, formerly published under the title of "Villages and Village Life;" and "Titus Andronicus," another volume in W. J. Rolfe's excellent edition of Shakespeare's works.

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO. have ready this week three new books for art students and teachers. The first treats of "The Theory of Design," and is written by Lucas Baker, who gives a masterly presentation of the true principles of inventive art. The work is divided into three parts: (1) the text proper, liberally illustrated; (2) a series of original designs made by a class of pupils under the instruction of the author; (3) a collection of plant forms (natural and conventional) for use as elements of design. The second, also by Mr. Baker, is entitled "The Science and Art of Model and Object Drawing," and is designed for use as a text-book for schools, and for self-instruction of teachers and art students. The other volume is entitled "Light and Shade in Landscape," and comprises four series of lessons selected from White's Progressive Art Studies, by George G. White. One series of lessons is devoted to light and shade, as introductory to the general study of all branches of art, the other three series treat of trees and foreground plants, rocks and water, and general principles of landscape study. Each of the series is illustrated by twelve elaborate plates besides numerous illustrations in the text.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

NOTICE.—For fuller descriptions of those Illustrated Books and Books for the Young which are only briefly noted in this list, consult the Christmas Number of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY (Nov. 17).

Acting drama (The). Nos. 186-189. N. Y., Roorbach & Co., [1883]. ea., D. pap., 15 c.

Contents:—No. 186, The Shakespeare water-cure, suggested by and adapted from "Place aux dames," and pictured from many authors living and dead, by The Larks, 40 p.; No. 187, Marion Fay, a burlesque comedy in four acts, by J. C. Montague, 18 p.; No. 188, At sixes and sevens, an original comedietta in 1 act, by John Maddison Morton, 17 p.; No. 189, Change partners, an original comedietta in 1 act, by John Maddison Morgan and T. J. Williams, 17 p.

Adams, Oscar Fay. A brief hand-book of English authors. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1884 [1883]. 5+162 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Alphabetical list of prominent English writers—essayists, novelists, poets, historians, scientists, theologians, etc. The date of birth and death given, and the publishers, with a brief characterization of the writer's works and his place in literature. In many cases lists of works given. A convenient little hand-book for every-day reference.

Baker, L. C. The mystery of creation and of man; [also] A new view of future punishment. Phil., J. B. Lippincott & Co., 1884 [1883]. 3-204 p. D. cl., $1.

Series of servid pulpit utterances in defence of the Christian faith.

Bassett, J. Anthony. Latitude and longitude, and longitude and time, embracing a comprehensive discussion, with over 100 illustrative questions and examples. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1883. 42 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Bassler, S. S. The weather: a practical guide to its changes, showing signal service system and how to foretell local weather. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1883. 54 p. il. O. pap., 25 c.

This little book aims to be simply what its title implies: a practical guide to weather changes, and a help to a better understanding of the weather reports and predictions daily issued.

Blaikie, W. Sound bodies for our boys and girls. N. Y., Harper, 1884 [1883]. 9+168 p. il. S. cl., 40 c.

This little manual embodies some of the suggestions made by Mr. Blaikie in a former work, "How to get strong and how to stay so." It offers a number of safe and simple exercises, many of them familiar to gymnasts and athletes, which boys and girls may practise in or out of school without a special costume or expense for apparatus. The aim has been to leave no muscle undeveloped, but to call attention to a few exercises for each part of each limb, and all parts of the body.

Booth, Walter S. Highway manual for the Territory of Dakota: complete guide for overseers of highways and county road supervisors in their various duties under the road law. 2d ed. Rochester, Minn., Walter S. Booth, 1884 [1883]. 48 p. D. pap., 35 c.

Booth, Walter S. Township manual for the Territory of Dakota: complete guide for township officers in their various duties under the township and road laws. Rochester, Minn., Walter S. Booth, 1884 [1883]. 176 p. D. pap., $1.

Bullock, Ja. D. The secret service of the Confederate States in Europe; or, how the Confederate cruisers were equipped. N. Y.,

G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1883. 2 v., O. (edition limited) cl., $6.

Caddy, Mrs. Adrian Bright: a novel. N. Y., Harper, [1883]. 106 p. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., no. 347.) pap., 20 c.

The author calls this, in her dedication to Madame Jenny Viard-Louis, a "simple tale of modern feeling." The scenes and characters are English, and there is a great deal of talk about art and music. Her other books are "Artists and amateurs" and "Lares and penates."

Canfield, Ja. H. Taxation: a plain talk for plain people. N. Y., Soc. for Political Education, 4 Morton St., 1883. 4+48 p. D. (Economic tracts, no. 9.) pap., 25 c. Advocates land tax—especially taxation of unimproved land.

Carolino, Pedro. "Her seconds part." English as she is spoke; or, a jest in sober earnest; with an introduction by Ja. Millington. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1883. 4+56 p. T. pap., 20 c.

Equally as laughable as the first part of Senhor Carolino's grammar for teaching Portuguese English. In this portion specimens are given of his style of pronunciation and translations of letters, anecdotes and sentences. As irresistably funny as any jest-book by the most famous humorist.

Clark, T. M. Building superintendence. Bost., Ja. R. Osgood & Co., 1883. il., plans and diagrams, O. $3.

Cobbe, Frances Power. Religious duty. Bost., G: H. Ellis, 1883. 5+311 p. D. cl., $1.

"The treatise on religious duty contained in the present volume is designed as a contribution toward a vast object—the development of theism as a religion for the life no less than a philosophy for the intellect," so says Miss Cobbe. Religious faults and offences coming naturally under consideration in discussing religious obligations are also fully treated of under separate headings, as blasphemy, apostasy, hypocrisy, pantheism, thanklessness, impenitence, scepticism, etc.

Colebrooke, W. Treatise on the law of collateral securities as applied to negotiable, quasi-negotiable and non-negotiable choses in action. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1883. 61+646 p. O. shp., $6.50.

Crocker, Uriel H. Notes on common forms: a book of Massachusetts law. 3d ed., rev. and enl., including the statutes of 1883, and Massachusetts reports, v. 133. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1883. 31+503 p. O. shp., $6.

Davies, C. Elements of surveying and levelling; rev. by J. Howard Van Amringe. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., [1883]. 161 p. O. shp., $1.75.

New and thoroughly revised edition of a leading text-book, first published in 1830, the final revisions by the author having been made in the edition of 1870. In the present edition, while the admirable features which have hitherto commended the work so highly to institutions of learning and to practical surveyors have been retained, some of the topics have been abridged in treatment and some enlarged, others have been added, and the whole has been arranged in the order of progressive development.

Dodds, Susanna W., M.D. Health in the household; or, hygienic cookery. N. Y., Fowler & Wells, 1884 [1883]. 9+602 p. D. cl., $2.

The keynote may be found in the preface. "The object of this work," says the author, "is to enable health-seekers

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record. This list will be reprinted, verbatim, with all the notices of the books received, in the TRADE LIST ANNUAL.

to furnish their tables with food that is wholesome and at the same time palatable." It is divided into three parts—"The reason why," "Hygienic dietary," and "The compromise." In the first department the author sets forth the scientific evidences in favor of a pure hygienic dietary, quoting liberally from recognized authorities. In part second are recipes made up in accordance with these views. The "Compromise diet" is a medium course between the strictly physiological and the common methods in vogue. The recipes as well as the information, general directions, etc., are given in explicit, simple language.

Dodge, Mrs. Mary Mapes. Donald and Dorothy. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1883. 9+355 p. il. D. cl., $2.

Readers of St. Nicholas already know the story of the twins, shipwrecked in their earliest infancy, rescued by a devoted nurse, adopted by their father's brother, and living a happy life for fifteen years before they are introduced in the pages of this delightful work of the gifted editor of that magazine. Dorothy's cousin, a baby-girl is lost at the time, and after many years the question of identity arises and the uncle's and twin-brother's efforts to prove her Dorothy make the plot. The author of "Hans Brinker" always writes of real children. The drive, the candy-pull, the Danbys, the home picnic, etc., are all descriptions to delight boys and girls of healthy, natural instincts. The publishers have made a handsome volume of the revised and enlarged work, and in its bright cover, gilt lettering, and black ornamentation, it is one of the most desirable juveniles of the season. Suitable for boys and girls.

Du Bois, H. P. Historical essay on the art of bookbinding. N. Y., Bradstreet Press, [1883]. 42 p. D. vellum.

An interesting, chatty sketch of the art of bookbinding from the earliest times. Gives also incidental sketches of prominent bibliophiles. Bibliography. Neatly printed and bound. May be had gratis.

Dyer, Rev. T. F. Thiselton. Folk-lore of Shakespeare. N. Y., Harper, 1884 [1883]. 5+559 p. O. cl., $2.50.

The object of this work, a unique one in its way, is to explain the various allusions found in Shakespeare's writings to the many superstitions and odd customs of the England of his day. Mr. Dyer, who has already made this subject a study in "British popular customs, past and present," and other works, has collected and grouped together under subject headings, such as fairies, witches, ghosts, demonology and devil-lore, natural phenomena, birds, animals, marriage, death and burial, birth and baptism, rings and precious stones, a very great number of quotations, which he accompanies with a very interesting explanatory text, throwing a strong light on many passages even cultured readers must find obscure. To the student of Shakespeare and of the social life of the Elizabethan age, the work is rich in information of a very rare kind.

English lyrics. N. Y., Appleton, 1884 [1883]. 12+295 p. S. (Parchment lib.) parchment, $1.25.

"The aim is to present in one volume the perfection of English lyrics, by whomsoever written between the dates selected. Wyatt heads the list, not because there were not a few excellent lyricists earlier than he, but because no earlier poems than his can be written in modern spelling without sacrifice of rhythm and rhyme, and it is desired that the book should be 'in a tongue understood of the people.' No living authors are included, and none who have died within the second half of this century. . . . Odes, properly so called, are excluded; as are all narrative, didactic, and ballad poems. Nor are true lyrics included which will not stand alone."—From editor's introduction.

Euripides. The Iphigenia among the Tauri; ed. with introduction and critical and explanatory notes by E. B. England. N. Y., Macmillan, 1883. 31+260 p. S. cl., net, $1.10.

Fawcett, Edgar. An ambitious woman: a novel. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1884 [1883]. 2+444 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The career of Claire Hollister is one with which every American is acquainted. With beauty, talent, "cheek, and opportunity, it is by no means an exceptional thing, especially in New York City, for a woman to rise from the obscurity of a two-story wooden house in Greenpoint to be the wife of a Wall St. prince and a leader of fashion. Such are the chief incidents in the life of Mr. Fawcett's "ambitious woman." But in attaining the summit of her desires, she trembles often upon the very brink of crime. The story, though realistic to a degree in its descriptions of local scenery, is very strongly presented, and will no doubt be accepted as the very best novel the author has written. All classes are represented in the characters, from the Bowery loafer to the fascinating stock broker of easy principles, and from the rich heiress of a Hoboken brewer to the society woman of exclusive friendships and Knickerbocker ancestors. Mr. Fawcett is very happy in all his delineations.

Fisher, G. P., D.D. The Reformation. New ed. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1883. O. cl., reduced to $2.50.

Francillon, R. E. A great heiress: a fortune in seven checks. N. Y., Harper, [1883]. 27 p. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., no. 348.) pap., 15 c.

French celebrities, by Edouard Sylvain, Jules Claretie [and others]. Pt. 2. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls, 1883. 2-150 p. D. (Standard lib., no. 102.) pap., 15 c.

Nine papers on Jules Ferry, George Clémenceau, Ernest Renan, Henri Rochefort, Jules Simon, Erckmann-Chatrian, Paul Bert, Alphonse Daudet and Challemel-Lacour.

Giberne, Agnes. Kathleen: the story of a home. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1883. 3+324 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A well-told story, bringing out the false kindness of parents in bringing up their children without teaching them to have self-reliance and independent judgment. Family home-life, with its little wearing frictions depending upon the peculiarities of character in individuals, is truthfully drawn. The self-sacrificing sick mother and the kind, handsome, intensely selfish father are good types of well-known characteristics.

Griswold, W. M. Table alphabétique générale des matières et des noms des auteurs contenus dans les tomes 193-268 de la Revue des Deux Mondes, et 1-21 de la Nouvelle Revue. Bangor, Me., Q. P. Index, 1883. 25 p. O. (Q. P. Indexes, no. 14.) pap., $1.

Guernsey, Roccellus S. Suicide: history of the penal laws relating to it in their legal, social, moral and religious aspects, in ancient and modern times. Rev. and enl. ed. N. Y., L. K. Strouse & Co., 1883. 46 p. O. cl., $1.

Hale, E. Everett. Our Christmas in a palace: a traveller's story. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls, 1882. 2-268 p. D. cl., $1.

The "palace" is a Pullman palace car, due at Council Bluffs on Christmas eve, which is snowed in on the road and obliged to lie over Christmas day. The passengers, many of whom are graphically drawn characters, resolve to make the best of it and spend their Christmas in playing games and telling stories. The plan gives Mr. Hale his opportunity to show his great talent as a writer of short stories. The thread of narrative woven between shows his characters as bright talkers, warm-hearted men and women, and persons of marked individuality. "Christmas in Cooney camp," included in the volume, is a story furnished by Mr. Collingwood, which is published for the first time. A slight touch of romance is given the whole volume by the attachment that springs up during the journey, between Mr. Decker and Miss Bourn. The chapter on "Ideals" contains many excellent thoughts.

Hart, M. C. The amateur printer; or, typesetting at home: complete instructor for the amateur in all the details of the printer's art, with explanatory engravings. N. Y., Dick & Fitzgerald, [1883]. 44 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Herrick, Sophie Bledsoe. The wonders of plant-life under the microscope. N. Y., G. Putnam's Sons, 1883. 4+248 p. D. cl., $1.50.

10 studies, mainly of the lower forms of plant-life, although considerable space is devoted to insectivorous plants, with the design of popularizing Darwin's work in this direction, and also because the subject in itself is so curious and interesting. Some of the chapters appeared in Scribner's Monthly and the Southern Review, but the larger part of the book on fungi, lichens, mosses, corn and its congeners, and orchids is new. The text is especially well-written and attractive.

Hunt, N. Clemons, comp. The poetry of other lands: a collection of translations into English verse of the poetry of other languages, ancient and modern. Phil., Porter & Coates, [1883]. 3-445 p. O. cl., $2.

The compiler says: "This book does not claim to be an encyclopaedia of all the poetry of other countries translated into English verse, but is a collection of those minor and lyrical poems that seemed to the compiler, after an examination of all the works on the subject accessible to him, as deserving of being better known to English-speaking people than they would ever become hid in obscure corners and amid much rubbish. The book will be an admirable companion volume to any of the collections of English poetry that are now published." Arranged under subject-headings. The alphabetical index of authors gives dates of birth and death and the names of translators.

James, F. L. The wild tribes of the Soudan : account of travel and sport, chiefly in the Basé country, being personal experiences and adventures during three winters spent in the Soudan. N.Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1883]. 12+272 p., il. and maps, O. cl., $5.

The Basé country, a portion of the Egyptian Soudan explored by Mr. James, is a small tract of country lying between Takar (an Egyptian province, of which Cassala is the principal town) and Abyssinia. It is almost entirely unknown to Europeans and abounds in many kinds of large game such as lions, hyenas, etc. The natives are more uncivilized than any other people who dwell in that part of Africa, and have the name of being treacherous and unfriendly. The chief object of Mr. James's party was sport, though the desire to penetrate into the heart of this country had long been with him a cherished object. They were a large party and prepared for hostilities, but succeeded in getting on the best of terms with the Basé tribe, and in seeing a great deal of the country. This and the customs of the people are graphically described. The hunting adventures are numerous and very thrilling. The book is a very handsome one, printed on fine paper with plenty of margin, top gilt, and inclosed in a cover, richly stamped and gilded. The illustrations (woodcuts) are all full-page and taken from photographs. The maps which accompany the texts are new and were made by Mr. James's brother and Mr. Aylmer, to whom the reader is also indebted for the photographs. The work is a valuable addition to African exploration. Index.

Jewett, Sarah Orne. The mate of the Daylight and friends ashore. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1884 [1883]. 4+254 p. S. cl., $1.25.

Eight of Miss Jewett's graceful tales and sketches are collected in this dainty little volume. "The mate of the Daylight" is a nautical romance told in a quaint, old-fashioned style, that will please every admirer of this versatile author's writings. The other papers are entitled, "A landless farmer;" "A new parishioner;" "An only son;" "Miss Derby's neighbors;" "Tom's husband;" "The confession of a house-breaker;" "A little traveller."

Longfellow, H. Wadsworth. Twenty poems from H. W. Longfellow, il. from paintings by his son Ernest W. Longfellow. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1884 [1883]. 61 p. O. cl., $4; mor. or tree cl., $9.

The twenty poems which Mr. Ernest Longfellow has interpreted with rare grace and beauty are : "It is not always May;" "Daybreak;" "The village blacksmith;" "The day is done;" "Seaweed;" "The evening star;" "Cadenabbia;" "Amalfi;" "Snowflakes;" "Songo River;" "Chrysanthemum;" "Moonlight;" "The lighthouse" "The bells of Lynn;" "Three friends of mine;" "The tides;" "Elephant;" "The tide rises, the tide falls;" "Mad river in the White Mountains;" "Becalmed." The designs, some fifty in number, including a new portrait of the poet, are all gems, and exquisitely finished. The careful manner in which they have been engraved by the best engravers, the rich paper and handsome type, all combine to make this volume one of the most attractive of the season.

This work takes its place unchallenged as the most valuable contribution to art ever contributed by an American. Seven years of hard, unremitting toil have been spent in its production after all the linguistic studies necessary for the undertaking had been completed. The author's plan is historical and geographical. Each country and each epoch is exhaustively treated, even to the details of manners, customs, festivals, etc., instead of the more usual plan being followed of grouping the productions of any one style of art. It is said that Mr. George P. Marsh first urged the writing of this great work, and gave much help in the preliminary studies necessary. The publishers have brought out the book in sumptuous and imposing shape, with all the finish of detail that is now identified with the art-works of the house. It is one of the handsomest books of the season. See note in Christmas P. W.

A fancy sketch of the complications which may arise—and probably do arise—in a case of infringement of a patent-right.

Palgrave, Francis Turner, comp. The golden treasury of the best songs and lyrical poems in the English language; selected and arranged with notes by Francis Turner Palgrave; with a continuation, embracing selections from the works of recent and living English poets; ed. by J. Foster Kirk. Phil., J. B. Lippincott & Co., 1884 [1883]. 15+455 p. il. O. cl., $3.50; mor. or tree cf., $8.

The "Golden treasury," one of the most lovely poetical anthologies in the English language, was first published in 1860, no additions having been made to it until now. It contained then scarcely anything of a later date than 1830, as writings of living poets were excluded. Book fifth, now added, covers some 100 pages, and gives specimens of all recent poets from Wordsworth. The Brownings, Swinburne, Rossetti, Tennyson, Matthew Arnold, Jean Ingelow, and others equally noted will be found richly represented. Thus supplemented, the work offers one of the choicest and most complete collections of songs and lyrics ever published. The work is beautifully issued with red-line borders, gilt edges, and in a rich binding. Notes. Index of writers. Index of first lines.

Ritter, F. L. Music in America. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1883. 12+423 p. D. cl., $2.

Dr. Ritter is well qualified in many ways for the task he has set himself in this and the preceding work, of narrating the history and development of music in this country and in England. He is himself a distinguished musician and composer, engaged at present as director of the school of music at Vassar College; he is also the author of several other works on music, "The student's history of music," etc., and has been for many years connected with musical papers. The work on England, dedicated to "Fanny," his wife, Mrs. Fanny Raymond Ritter, also a musician of considerable fame, has chapters on the English ballad and Gregorian chant; the early English contrapuntists; the composers of the Elizabethan epoch; the decline of musical art under Puritan rule, and the revival of musical culture during the restoration; music in the Roman Catholic, Lutheran, and Genevan churches; the English cathedral service and English psalmody, etc.; and music from Charles Avison to Dr. W. Crotch. "Music in America," opens with the dawn of musical cultivation as shown in Puritan psalmody (1620-1771); the second period, 1771-1815, is devoted to American composers—William Billings and his contemporaries; the third to an account of the establishment of the Boston Handel and Haydn Society; the fourth embraces the introduction of Italian opera; the fifth the establishment of the New York Philharmonic Society; and the sixth and last (1861-1880), the progress of the last two decades. Both volumes have at the end a number of musical examples illustrating the text. These are not only very interesting but very valuable to the student.

The titles of these essays and sketches are: The conversation of Coleridge; Sarah Siddons; Dr. Johnson; Lord Macaulay; Lamb; Burns; The Christianity of Woolman; John Randolph and John Brown; The audacity of Foote; Habit; The habit of detraction; The art of living. Like "Library notes," by the same author, these charming sketches evince the widest reading, being in a large measure compilations of anecdote and reminiscences from celebrated writers. They are put together in such an attractive manner, and are so gossipy and lively, that no one can help delighting in them.

Contains sketches, anecdotes and personal reminiscences of Bulwer, Disraeli, Macaulay, Charlotte Brontë, Irving, Poe, Harriet Martineau, etc. Mr. Shepard quotes largely from N. P. Willis's "Pencillings by the way" in his picture of "Literary London in 1835," describing Lady Blessington, Bulwer, Disraeli, and other famous men and women of the day. An interesting reminiscence of Macaulay is taken from a paper by Thackeray, "Nil nisi bonum." The chapter on Charlotte Brontë is compiled from "The reminiscences of an old schoolfellow," published in Scribner's Monthly, "A gossip with Martha Brown," Miss Martineau's "Reminiscences," etc. The account of Poe is taken from sketches by T. W. Gibson and Miss Susan A. T. Weiss.

Chancellor's oration, delivered at the 86th commencement of Union College, 1883. The doctor's argument is that an "imperative manliness—fine in fibre, but unyielding in force, which makes one sympathetic with others, yet independent of them, superior to vicissitudes, self-poised and temperate amid all oppositions, with every purpose undisturbed, and every power in easy play, though passions assail him, and the times repulse and reject his impression—is really the prime requisite for every scholar who would use his opportunity to the noblest advantage," and that a conscientious yet a thoroughly impassioned moral energy, must supplement this.

Thomas, Annie [Mrs. Pender Cudlip]. Jenifer: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1883. 52 p. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., no. 349) pap., 20 c.

The odd title which this novel bears is the heroine's first name. She is a noble girl, who tries to carry on her shoulders the cares of her whole family. Her father's will leaves her and her mother almost penniless, giving to her eldest brother the whole estate. A sealed letter, to be opened three years afterward, changes the whole aspect of things, rewarding the apparently neglected ones and punishing the selfish and ungrateful very much as in a fairy tale. The author will be remembered through "Denis Donne" and other bright novels of English fashionable life.

Tourgueneff, Ivan. Poems in prose. Bost., Cupples, Upham & Co., 1883. 3-120 p. por. S. cl., $1.25.

A variety of simple subjects are treated in a highly imaginative manner. The author is by turns witty, cynical and pathetic, sometimes pointing an epigram, and again reading a lesson. These little allegories are among the last things written by the great Russian genius. Although prose in form, they have all the charm and quality of poetry in their treatment and setting.

Warner, C: Dudley. A roundabout journey. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1884 [1883]. 4+360 p. O. cl., $1.50.

Although the route over which Mr. Warner travelled in his "roundabout" journey has already found many pens to describe it, there is a freshness about his descriptions that make them altogether delightful. He not only stops to picture in graphic style places and people, but interweaves in his narrative many historical and biographical reminiscences, as full of solid facts as romance. He left Paris in Nov. of 1881, travelling to Avignon, thence to Nimes, to Montpellier, to Cette, to La Belle Magueloune, to Munich, to Orvieto, to Palermo, Taormina, Syracuse, Malta, Gibraltar and Tangier, across Africa and afterward along the Spanish coast. The chapters on Wagner's "Parsifal," "The Alhambra" and "The bull-fight" are extremely interesting. Mr. Warner is the author of several other volumes of travel that are accepted as standard works, viz.: "My winter on the Nile," "In the Levant," etc.

"The reader will find in the following pages a thoughtful view of the processes of world-formation, world-growth, and world-decadence. I have gathered together here many of the important facts observed in the constitution and course of nature, and have endeavored to weave them into a system by the connecting threads of scientific inference. I have aimed to incorporate the soundest and latest views published on the various branches of the subject, and have felt constrained, in so wide a field, and so unexplored in some of its nooks, to interpose my own conclusions in some cases where, perhaps, due diffidence should have restrained my pen. Inevitably the whole discussion is conducted from the standpoint of nebular cosmogony."—Author's Preface.

The Publishers' Weekly.

DECEMBER 15, 1883.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries" gratefully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE NEW POSTAGE LAW.

The above heading is the only one that can be used in speaking of the recent so-called "ruling" of the P. O. Department, in which, by a single stroke of the pen, this executive department annuls and sets at naught a law duly made by Congress, and in place of this puts into operation one of its own.

The law as made by Congress is as plain as the English language can make it, and the definition of "printed matter" was specially drawn in order that there might be no question as to the meaning of it; and yet in the face of this comes this "ruling," and changes the whole thing.

The exact words of the law are given herewith, that it may be seen how carefully it was drawn. It reads thus: "'Printed matter,' within the intentment of the law, is defined to be the reproduction upon paper, by any process except that of handwriting, of any words, letters, characters, figures, or images, or of any combination thereof, not having the character of an actual and personal correspondence." Act of March 3, 1879, also Regulations, sec. 219.

It is impossible to define anything more fully than "printed matter" is defined in the quotation above, and yet in the face of this the department assumes to entirely ignore these words and place these articles in a class whose only description is as follows: "Mailable matter of the fourth class shall embrace all matter not embraced in the first, second, or third class;" "all matter of the fourth class shall be subject to examination and to a postage charge at the rate of one cent an ounce or fraction thereof, to be prepaid by stamp affixed."

No word in all this there is not a single word said about being "sent as merchandise, or as samples," and if "printed matter" is embraced in either the first, second, or third class, then it is not in any way or shape, or under any circumstances, under the fourth. And the ruling has just as much right to put it under the first as under the fourth; and the same usurpation of power that does this can as easily make book postage the same as letter, as it doubles the rate upon "printed matter."

It is to be hoped that the publishers and booksellers who may see this will call the attention of members of Congress to this abuse, and that such a rebuke will be administered as will for all time to come make the executive departments of the government willing to attend to their own business, and not try to do the work that belongs to Congress.

THE BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

AT the last monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees, held at Cassell & Co.'s, 739 and 741 Broadway N. Y., the claim of Mrs. L. Miller, beneficiary of the late John Miller, a member of the association, who died Nov. 18, 1883, was presented and ordered paid. The amount was $520. Assessment No. 13 will be issued by the secretary on the 26th inst. The secretary announced, as required by the by-laws, having erased from the roll the names of sixteen members who failed to pay assessment No. 12 within the specified time. Repeated efforts had been made to reach them without success. It is very necessary for every member, in changing his Post-Office address, to promptly notify the secretary of the same.

The following applicants were elected members:

Geo. W. Graeff, Jr., Phila.	Isaac M. Cook, New York.
John Glenn,	Francis E. Fitch,
Alex. B. Walsh, Baltimore.	Wm. Gramm, Jr.,
H. T. Rowley, Pittsburg.	Frank W. Hard,
R. Walter Bell, New York.	Melvin T. Hard,
David C. Bourne,	Wm. A. Hard,
Jacob Doornbas,	Richard Hoepner,
Henry Blackwell,	Wm. T. Kellogg,
Harry J. Calvert,	J. H. McInnes,
Lemuel C. Mygatt,	W. H. Sears,
Ernest Ruestow,	S. Geo. Wilkinson,
Herman Schwenke,

Mr. W. C. Babcock was unanimously elected an assistant vice-president for Boston, Mass., and Mr. Geo. J. Leary was elected assistant to the secretary. Total membership 543, of which number 148 were elected since June last.

J. A. HOLDEN, Secretary.

It is hoped that during the coming year interest enough will be taken by every member of the association to endeavor to raise the total membership to 1000. Let each member see to it that his colleague or friend in the trade is or becomes a member.

POSTAL MATTERS.

RULING IN REGARD TO SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL,
WASHINGTON, D. C., November 21, 1883.

CIRCULAR NO. 1223.

From and after this date, that portion of ruling 454, page 704, January, 1883, Postal Guide, requiring the consecutive paging of inserts in magazines or other periodicals, will not be enforced; and legitimate publications of the second class, which contain unpaged inserts, should be treated as having lost no privileges under the law which is extended to matter of that class.

Such publications, when the advertising matter is so much in excess, or out of proportion to the reading matter as to properly raise the question whether or not they are, in their entirety, published primarily for advertising purposes, should be submitted by the mailing postmaster to the Department for examination, when the same rules that govern other classes of publications will be applied, thus reducing the question to two issues, viz., Approval of the matter presented, or its exclusion from the mails as matter of the second class.

Postmasters are requested to make a critical examination of the class of publications named, when presented for mailing; and in all cases when in their judgment they believe an attempt is being made by a publisher, through the use of an excessive number of "inserts," to violate that portion of the statute (see section 185, page 73, Postal Laws and Regulations) which declares that publications which are published primarily for advertising purposes cannot be admitted to the mails as matter of the second class, they should, before mailing the edition, require of the publisher a deposit of third-class rates of postage, upon condition that if after presentation to the Department the matter is adjudged to be entitled to pass through the mails at the pound rates, the difference in postage will be refunded.

FRANK HATTON,
First Assistant Postmaster-General.

VIENNA INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION CATALOGUE.

From the London Bookseller, Nov. 3.

THE catalogue of the Vienna International Exposition of Graphic Arts is a splendid and most interesting volume. It is an imperial 8vo, and contains not only a catalogue of the exhibits and a biographical register of artists, but also a collection of upward of fifty superb pictures, specimens of every variety of method employed in pictorial production. Engravings on wood and steel, etchings, lithographs, chromo work, and an infinite variety of process engravings are represented by one or more choice specimens, each printed by the house which has made the particular process its specialty. Several of the processes are entirely new to us, and suggest possibilities of employment in book illustration as novel as they are beautiful. Probably most publishers would obtain some useful hints from the catalogue. Apart from its interest in this respect, it is a charming album, and but for an occasional reminder of its purpose, might serve as a drawing-room table book. The publishers are the Gesellschaft für Vervielfältigende Kunst, Vienna.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

N. TIBBALS & SONS, N. Y., will issue in a few days the first number of The Illustrator of the International Sunday Lessons for 1884, a new help for teachers and scholars to study the lesson. Price, 60 cents.

The Annals of Mathematics, announced for bi-monthly issue from the University of Virginia, beginning with February 1, 1884, is the successor of the The Analyst, a mathematical magazine edited and published during the past ten years by Dr. J. E. Hendricks, of Des Moines, Iowa. The new journal, like the old, is designed to be a medium of communication and publication for teachers and students of mathematics.

The Independent during the coming year will make its literary department and literary features of unusual interest and variety. A special list of articles, stories, poems, etc., by many of the most eminent of English and American writers has been secured, and among those from whom contributions have been already obtained may be named William D. Howells, W. E. Norris, F. Marion Crawford, Robert Grant, Miss Sarah Orne Jewett, "J. S. of Dale," Joaquin Miller, and "H. H."

THE next issue of the Popular Science Monthly will contain an elaborate article on "The Classics in Germany," giving a vigorous answer to President Porter and others who have appealed to the celebrated "Berlin Report," against Charles Francis Adams on the Greek question. The article is by Professor E. J. James, of the University of Pennsylvania, who has recently returned from Germany, where he carefully investigated the whole subject. He insists that it has been greatly misunderstood here, and that the inferences drawn from German experience of classical and scientific studies are of not the slightest value in this country as an argument on the Greek side.

BOHEMIA is establishing a claim to literary recognition by the publication of a first-class journal, which, under the name of Athenaeum, boldly challenges comparison. It confines its scope to scientific literature, but within its limitations aims to be far more representative than its English prototype, The Athenaeum. The object of the Bohemian Athenaeum is to present a monthly survey of scientific literature of the world by reviews and notices of the more prominent publications and by tables of contents of the more prominent periodicals in its respective departments. "Scientific literature," here used in the widest sense of the word, comprises Theology, Law, and Politics as well as Medicine, Philosophy, and Technics. The prospectus also promises yearly summaries of scientific progress, academic reports, etc., etc. The first two numbers received reflect much credit on Prof. T. G. Masaryk, the editor-in-chief, for the systematic presentation of matter, which reminds us of the well-known Literarisches Centralblatt, also upon the publisher, Mr. J. Otto, of Prague, for the tasteful style of publication, which compares favorably with the best productions of the American press. We naturally, perhaps ignorantly, deem it a pity that so vast amount of interesting information should be locked up in the Bohemian tongue, but cordially hope that the scientific men and writers of that country may give the new journal the patronage its plan and execution merit.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GEO. H. ELLIS has in press "Luther and other Reformations," by Chas. H. Mead.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & CO. have in press a new edition of "The New England Medical Register," by Dr. F. H. Brown.

PICKWICK & CO., Philadelphia, will publish on the 18th inst. "The Journal of Solomon Sidesplitter," a collection of witticisms, compiled by Rufus C. Hartranft.

THE FREE RELIGIOUS ASSOCIATION, Boston, has published "The Secret of the East, or, the Origin of the Christian Religion, and the Significance of its Rise and Decline," by Felix L. Oswald, a series of essays which attempts to show the indebtedness of Christianity to Buddhism.

IT has been decided for the second time recently that in England there is no copyright in the title of a book. The test was the title of a novel called "Night and Day," written by Mr. Lewis Morris. The same title had been copyrighted by Mr. William Allingham some time before, but the case went against him.

R. WORTHINGTON announces for early publication a new edition of Bulwer's works in thirteen volumes, uniform with his issues of Dickens and Thackeray. It is printed from entirely new plates, and is intended as a popular edition. Mr. Worthington also announces a new edition of Schiller in eight volumes to match the Bulwer in style and price. This is also made from new plates and is liberally illustrated. The Unique edition of Bancroft's "History of the United States" will be ready on the 20th.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press Dr. R. Heber Newton's "Talks on the Books of the Bible." They will hereafter publish Dr. Newton's sermons in pamphlet form every week, and in book form at the end of the year. They have also in press a treatise on "Voice, Song, and Speech," by Lennox Browne and Emil Behnke, written from the point of view of a vocal surgeon and a voice trainer; Edward Armitage's "Lectures on Painting;" and Emil de Lavelley's "Elements of Political Economy."

THE new edition of the "Essays of Elia," published by Messrs. Putnam, says the "Lounger" of the Critic, "is the handsomest edition of that delightful book I have ever seen. Mr. Alexander Strahan has ordered 1000 copies with his imprint on the title-page for the English market. Some years ago the late Mr. G. P. Putnam sold an edition of Irving's 'Sketch-Book' to a London publisher, and one day, in the office of another London publisher, the book was shown him as a fine specimen of English book-making. 'Why can't you do work like that in America?' said the Englishman, pointing to the imprint of the London house."

"OLD World Idylls" (London: C. Kegan Paul, Trench & Co.; New York: Scribner & Welford), the new English edition of Mr. Austin Dobson's collected poems, says the Evening Post, "differs but little from the American edition of 'Vignettes in Rhyme,' published by Henry Holt & Co. and introduced by Mr. Stedman. 'Old World Idylls' has been so well received in England that it has gone into a second edition within a month after its appearance. Fifty large-paper copies were privately printed with the book plate which Mr. E. A. Abbey drew for Mr. Dobson as a frontispiece. The new edition of the 'Vicar of Wakefield,' which Mr. Dobson has just prepared for the Parchment series, will contain in its notes a mass of new matter."

MR. GEORGE L. CATLIN, United States Consul at Stuttgart, has sent us a dainty little volume of verse, mostly based upon the scenes and legends of that beautiful portion of Southern Germany known by the name of Swabia. Mr. Catlin intends publishing a volume of poems to be called "Swabian Sketches," and several of the pretty, peaceful, contented poems of the present book will be included in its successor. "The Postilion of Nagold," from which the volume takes its name, tells in pathetic lines the story of an old man returning to the scenes of his boyhood on the way to other lands, and how his heart was touched and his wanderings ceased upon hearing the "postilion" play upon his bugle horn the familiar notes of the grand old psalm, "Praise the Lord, O my soul!" Several of the other poems have appeared at various times in American newspapers. Paper, type and binding are very creditable to the German publisher, Konrad Wittwer, Stuttgart, and make a pretty setting for these quiet, healthy verses on nature, tradition, and familiar incident.

BOOKS WANTED.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers are entitled to a free insertion of five lines, exclusive of address, in each issue. Repeated matter, however, must be charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Copy for this Department must reach us Thursday Morning to be in time for insertion in same week's issue.

WHITE'S SHAKESPEARE. COMPLETE EDITION.

WITH ALL THE NOTES. IN TWELVE VOLUMES. 12mo.

Shakespeare's Complete Works.

The Plays, edited from the Folio of 1623, with various readings from all the editions and all the Commentators, Notes, Introductory Remarks, Historical Sketch of the Text, an Account of the rise and Progress of the English Drama, a Memoir of the Poet, Essay upon his Genius, Poems, Sonnets, and Index.

By RICHARD GRANT WHITE.

Any one desiring to select a good copy of Shakespeare for the library will find it of advantage to examine this edition, which combines several desirable and important features not included in any other.

First: THE TYPE.

It is handsomely printed in large, clear type, on excellent white paper, the volumes open easily, and the page is in all respects a readable one and will not try the eyes.

Second: THE TEXT.

Mr. White faithfully followed the First Folio, and his Text was pronounced by the North American Review to be "the nearest attainable approach to the great dramatist's own," and by James Russell Lowell, "the best extant text."

Third: THE NOTES.

These are very full and valuable, including citations from the annotations of the best editors, beside the results of a large amount of original labor and thought. The Notes are placed at the end of each Play, where they can be easily referred to by the Student, but do not interrupt continuous reading of the poet's text.

Fourth: ITS MODERATE PRICE.

The twelve volumes contain nearly SIX THOUSAND PAGES, and the set, handsomely bound in cloth, is put up in a box, and published at the low price of Fifteen Dollars. It can also be supplied in elegant half calf and full calf bindings.

Fifth: ITS COMPLETENESS.

This edition contains much additional matter not in any other, notably Mr. White's Memoir of Shakespeare and Essay on Shakespeare's Genius, his Essay on the Rise and Progress of the English Drama and Historical Sketch of Shakespeare's Text. It is the only edition which includes all of White's Notes, the fulness of which, wrote James Russell Lowell, gives the edition, "THE VALUE OF A VARIORUM."

READY DECEMBER 15th:

THE BOYS OF THIRTY-FIVE.

A Story of a Seaport Town. By EDWARD H. ELWELL, editor of the Portland Transcript. $1.25.

* * This is one of the most entertaining juveniles ever written. It is not so much a story as a series of stories of life in Portland a half century ago. What Mr. Aldrich did for Portsmouth, Mr. Elwell now does for that "old town by the sea," which witnessed the boyhood of Longfellow and which so vividly impressed itself upon the poet's mind and verse. The author's fund of anecdote and bright humor impart an interest and charm to his most successful rehabilitation of a past period of time. Young and old readers will acknowledge themselves the author's debtors, after finishing the narrative.

LIFE AT PUGET SOUND.

With Sketches of Travel in Washington Territory, British Columbia, Oregon, and California, 1865-1881. By CAROLINE C. LEIGHTON. $1.25.

* * The vast inland sea known as Puget Sound, ramifying in various directions, the wide-spreading and majestic forests, the ranges of snow-capped mountains on either side, the mild and equable climate, and the diversified resources of this favored region, excite the astonishment and admiration of all beholders. The region presents an endless field for observation and enjoyment. There is already a steady stream of emigration to this new "land of promise," and everything seems to indicate for it a vigorous growth and development, and a brilliant and substantial future.

FLOYD GRANDON'S HONOR.

A Novel. By AMANDA M. DOUGLAS. $1.50.

* * A story by Miss Douglas is always a pleasant book for her large circle of readers, and the sentiment in which she indulges is always so true and good that it makes one think better of human nature in general. In this, her latest work, Miss Douglas gives us what is undoubtedly her most powerful piece of fiction. Floyd Grandon, the hero, around whose life no end of suspicion clusters, and whose ways are always fraught with mystery, is a creation which must win the interest of every reader; he is perhaps the most pronounced type of manhood yet portrayed by the author. The work is published in the same style and is uniform in price with Miss Douglas's other novels, viz. :

Whom Kathie Married.

In Trust; or, Dr. Bertram's Household.

The Old Woman who Lived in a Shoe.

Nelly Kinnard's Kingdom.

Lost in a Great City.

From Hand to Mouth.

Hope Mills; or, Between Friend and Sweet-heart.

Stephen Dare.

Home Nook; or, The Crown of Duty.

Claudia.

Seven Daughters.

Sydney Adriance; or, Trying his Hand.

NEARLY READY:

TWELVE MONTHS IN AN ENGLISH PRISON.

By MRS. SUSAN B. FLETCHER. $1.50.

* * This volume contains a most thrilling narrative of the experiences of a well-known medium in a situation where the visible ministrations of invisible forces are proven by the testimony of the jailers themselves. Its appearance is designed to create a profound impression, as well as a most lively discussion.

"Many of the scenes and incidents are startling, and if the book should fail to change certain notions in regard to Spiritualism, it certainly will confound sceptical thinkers and writers." — Boston Transcript.
